Mental and Behavioral Health

Released August 14, 2025

Effective September 13, 2025

We care deeply about your well-being. TikTok is a place to engage, have fun, and find a sense of belonging, while fostering both mental and physical wellness. We work hard to keep it that way.

Suicide and Self-Harm

We want TikTok to be a place where you can discuss emotionally complex topics in a supportive way without increasing the risk of harm. We don't allow showing, promoting, or sharing plans for suicide or self-harm.

If you or someone you know is struggling, support is available. Reach out to a suicide prevention helpline or contact emergency services. If we see a specific, credible, and imminent threat—like someone posting a plan to hurt themselves—we may reach out to emergency services ourselves.

Disordered Eating, Risky Weight Management, and Body Image

We want you to feel confident in creating and sharing as your authentic self, without pressure to compare your body to others. That's why we don't allow content that promotes disordered eating and risky weight management behaviors. We also don't allow trading, marketing, or providing access to weight-related products and services that include exaggerated or harmful claims.
